STYLE GUIDE: FOOTNOTES AND BIBLIOGRAPHY

Law Technology and Humans uses the Chicago Manual of Style 17th Edition with footnotes and a bibliography. Please disable Endnote prior to submission.

In the footnotes the shortened form should be used for all notes (including first reference to that source). All subsequent references to the source should be the shortened form.

In footnotes the shortened form should just include first author and no et al. – all authors listed in bibliography

In footnotes the shortened form should not include any titles with italics – except for legal material or where title is Latin.

No Latin abbreviations (such as Ibid, op cit) are used.

Division of the bibliography into sections between secondary sources and primary sources (denoted by appropriate subheadings) is encouraged where the manuscript has used a number of primary sources (for example primary legal material or primary cultural material like films)

With each section of the bibliography sources are arranged in alphabetical author by surname of first named author, artist/director/producer (where appropriate) for cultural works, first named party for law case reports.

Individual bibliography entries are not numbered.

Note: Chicago 16 uses the three em dash rule for subsequent references by the same author in the bibliography but Chicago 17 doesn't use that anymore; instead, it gives the author's name again
